AIDS TO THOUGHTS FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS
Now if your house is not wired for thought of something new, nice and appropriate to give to some one else, the real aim in making Christmas presents is to give something that will do good to the recipient, be appreciated and last some time. This is the real underlying spirit in true giving whether at Christmas or any other time.

Just at present the headquarters of the Passenger and Power Company here are filled with presents in the direct line of true giving. These are electric and electric devices, useful and beautiful, and of all kinds of all kinds of curling irons for the hair, to give the sweetest and the cigar lighter for the ladies to give the beauty to the more useful, the household utensils such as the electric sewing machine, motors, chafing dishes, fans, flat irons, cooking outfits, health vibrators and many other useful and valuable presents.

Now if your house is not wired for electricity the best thing that you can do and the best present for Christmas is to have your house wired, and then you can enjoy the benefits of all the electric household devices that are being used more and more every day in the homes of smart folks everywhere.

Winnfield Kelly, of Holderfield, having kept a small bottle containing some drug in his store, and of his having entered the store on the evening of the murder and taken the bottle away a little while. When he brought it back he told Kelly confidentially that if anything had happened that night for the Lord's sake not to ever say anything about his having that bottle there, and that if he did it would be "Katie bar the door" with him.

Kelly testified that he turned over the bottle, with its contents, to the police after the murder. Dr. Pickel, assistant State chemist, testified that the bottle contained chloroform.

Controversy Closed.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

There is a divergence of opinion as to the published report and as to who is responsible for the publication. Both Golden and Clinebinst have friends who stand by them and believe they are guilty of the charge. The Norfolk bakers so far have said nothing as to the outcome, but there is some talk of asking Governor Swanson to conduct an investigation into the matter. The bureau is concerned, and find out definitely if any such report has been submitted there, as printed.

SURGICAL CASES FOR PHYSICIANS

Dr. Bryan Performs Rare Operation Before Southside Medical Society.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
EMPORIA, Va., December 8.—Dr. Robert C. Bryan, a distinguished surgeon of Richmond, presented before the Southside Virginia Medical Association at its twenty-third session held here today one of the most remarkable surgical cases in the history of medicine in the State.

The case was a woman—was exhibited to the members of the society, who displayed unusual interest in the case from the fact of its rarity.

The operation performed by Dr. Bryan on this patient was for the purpose of relieving an attack of facial neuralgia, which had persisted for the past three years, after every known medical remedy had been resorted to by her local physician.

Judging from the interest manifested by Dr. Bryan's hearers, the operation performed by him must have been a most formidable one. Briefly stated, the operation consisted in cutting a horseshoe-shaped piece of skin and bone out of the side of the skull sufficiently large to admit two to three fingers, and going beneath the brain to the point where a "trianction" of delicate nerve tissue exists, and from which point springs the nerves that are complicated in these incessant neuralgia attacks. This "trianction" of nerve was cut away from the brain structure, thereby relieving the sufferer of her constant pain.

Dr. Bryan's patient was operated upon several weeks ago in Richmond, and was sent back to her home here entirely cured several weeks ago.

It was remarked to-day by a prominent local physician that few cases of "facial neuralgia" trouble ever survive the shock of the operation, and the ablest and most experienced surgeons in this country regard this surgical undertaking as one of the most hazardous within the range of modern surgical experience.

Dr. Bryan also exhibited another very unusual case; that of a ruptured spleen, which he extirpated successfully. These operations may be regarded as anomalies in surgery.
